DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 16 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 11 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jeske et al. in view of Gomas.

Jeske et al. teaches a hand held wire stripper having a first lever member and a second lever member each with an elongated handle and an offset jaw having a working edge, the first and second lever members being pivotally joined so that the working edges lie adjacent each other when in a closed position. Jeske et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for each elongated handle having a rear grip and forward grip separated by an outward extension, the handles being symmetrical about a center line extending through the hinge point, and the rear grips being concave in the direction of the center line, and the forward grips being concave opening in a direction away from the centerline, and the forward grips being defined by radii within a range of approximately 1 to 2 inches. Gomas teaches an elongated handle having a rear grip and forward grip separated by an outward extension, the handles being symmetrical about a center line extending through the hinge point, and the rear grips being concave in the direction of the center line, (fig. 1), and an embodiment where he has a forward grip, (fig. 12, between 38b and 57), an extension, 57, and a rear grip (33b), with the forward grip being concave in a direction away from the centerline. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the tool of Jeske et al. with the grips as taught by Gomas, since both tools teach handle grips, and to enhance the gripping capabilities of the user. It would have been further obvious to have the radii of the forward grips to be within a range of approximately 1 to 2 inches, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jeske in view of Lu.

Jeske teaches all the limitations of the claims except for each of the rear grips defining at least one raised projection on an outer portion thereof adjacent the outward extensions. Lu teaches at least one raised projection, 12, (fig. 4). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the grips of Jeske, with the raised projections, as taught by Lu, in order to enhance the gripping capabilities.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 17-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 1 and 3-10 are allowed.
